Making Tracks by David Thaxton

Making Tracks, Recorder Exploration, Composition and Improvisation by David Thaxton. The purpose of this book is to introduce a series of student-centered musical activities that foster creativity on recorder in a class setting. It may be used to supplement and parallel other classroom music lessons and may be used in conjunction with other recorder methods. Its primary aim is to give students the instruction, support and skill in learning to play and create on the recorder. Making Tracks is born from an active approach to teaching - it makes use of imitation, playing by ear, connections to language and movement, musical exploration and improvisation. As such it is not intended to be used with students reading sheet music placed in front of them. Rather, the teacher guides activities using "Sound Before Sight" and unfolds lessons by echoing, mirroring, call-and-response, small group work and singing games. By following a sequence of Imitation – Exploration – Improvisation, students not only gain skill in the technical aspects of playing recorder, but also an understanding of the elements of music, literacy and composition as they are given opportunities to improvise very early on. The pieces are arranged in a progressively sequential order. However, lessons that contain Basic, Intermediate and Advanced options are not meant to be taught sequentially one after the other. Rather, they are meant to be revisited later as skills are gained that match the needs for the lesson, so they are continually developed in a spiral fashion.

David Thaxton

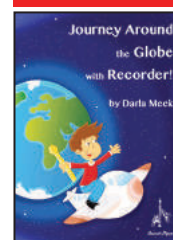

Making Tracks, Recorder Exploration, Composition and Improvisation by David Thaxton

The purpose of this book is to introduce a series of student-centered musical activities that foster creativity on recorder in a class setting. It may be used to supplement and parallel other classroom music lessons and may be used in conjunction with other recorder methods. Its primary aim is to give students the instruction, support and skill in learning to play and create on the recorder. Making Tracks is born from an active approach to teaching. It makes use of imitation, playing by ear, connections to language and movement, musical exploration and improvisation. As such it is not intended to be used with students reading sheet music placed in front of them. Rather, the teacher guides activities using "Sound Before Sight" and unfolds lessons by echoing, mirroring, call-and-response, small group work and singing games. By following a sequence of Imitation, Exploration, and Improvisation. Students not only gain skill in the technical aspects of playing recorder, but also an understanding of the elements of music, literacy and composition as they are given opportunities to improvise very early on. The pieces are arranged in a progressively sequential order. However, lessons that contain Basic, Intermediate and Advanced options are not meant to be taught sequentially one after the other. Rather, they are meant to be revisited later as skills are gained that match the needs for the lesson, so they are continually developed in a spiral fashion. The PowerPoints, included on the CD, contain full color visuals needed to teach each lesson. SP2419 Book and CD.....$34.95

Artie Almeida's Fun Foundations For Recorder, Vol. 1

by Artie Almeida/arr. Paul Jennings Hands-on and Step-by-step, How Artie integrates recorders into her amazing Bear Lake music program. The Teacher's Handbook is the heart of the kit, and its many sections take you step-by-step through Artie's program as it has evolved in the more than 20 years she has been developing it. Beyond basic technique there are sections on air production and management, instrument selection and care, repertoire, and so much more. And this is not a dry, academic work. It is a successful teacher talking to friends about how she does it.

More than text... In addition to the narrative, this kit features other specific resources, including games and activities for teaching and retention, as well as online masters to let you print and produce cards, forms, and other resources needed for the activities. And there is music! Artie has created teaching songs, warm-ups, and exercises, each arranged by Paul Jennings and recorded by the great musicians who you hear on all Plank Road Publishing products. You will find these on the CD (or MP3s on the downloadable edition) included with the kit.

Race Around the World
by David Krosner Race Around The World is an interdisciplinary recorder game that brings together a marriage of music and social studies. This book, PACD and the supplemental online files offer ways to integrate multiple disciplines into the music curriculum. The pieces in this book are a smattering of folk music from around the world. Due to the oral tradition of folk music, some melodies are not as you may have seen them in other books. The Birch Tree, for example, is based on a version sung to Mr. Krosner by his Russian grandmother. The PACD included with the Teachers Edition contains full performance audio tracks of each piece as well as accompaniment versions minus the soprano recorder tracks. The audio tracks are suitable for classroom and individual practice sessions as well as accompaniment for public performance. The teacher's edition includes Orff instrument scores for each piece by Brent Holl and Michael Nichols and correlations to the National Standards for Music and Social Studies. The supplemental online materials include animated graphics files, country information and pictures for use with interactive white boards and presentation stations, as well as mp3 files of the practice tracks for each song, high quality M4a audio files and individual instrument scores for printing or projection. Purchasers will be directed to a secure web page to download the supplemental materials. The Student Book contains everything each student needs to successfully navigate the game. There are duet scores for each recorder song as well as rules for the game, a passport to be "stamped," and country information for each song.

Original compositions in this book were written specifically as a way to practice and explore each technique before combining them with other handbell techniques. Each piece is playable on handbells and handchimes, although some techniques do not apply to handchimes. The music in this collection is written for two and three octave ringing ensembles as this is where most ringers begin.

Hand Puppets

Puppets help boost the imagination of young children while enhancing their fine motor skills. As an added feature, the machine-washable fabric stretches just enough for adults to join in. Puppets are great for assessing solo singing. A child is more likely to sing by themselves with a puppet on their hand than without, a sort of security blanket.

Rhythm Pals and Rhythm Lids

Rhythm Lids

are designed to fit most U. S. made pails or buckets. Remo's Rhythm pre-tuned drumheads are constructed with an Acousticon drumshell and are available with Comfort Sound Technology as well as with 3 types of Skyndee bright, medium, and dark. The Rhythm Lid Controlled Sound Snare Kit instantly rocks your bucket providing a high-end snare drum-like sound. They are designed to fit most 5, 6, and 7 gallon U.S. made pails. Applying the drumhead to the pail with a slight downward pressure creates a "Press Fit" seal that produces the quality tonal frequency. Most hardware stores or big box stores carry a pail or buckets that are compatible with the Rhythm Lid™ Drumhead, making it affordable and fun for educational, recreational, and street drumming. The Rhythm Pal Drum features a glossy black, 90 mil thick 6 gallon pail as the drum body and are available in two models, Comfort Sound Technology and a Medium Skyndee pre-tuned Rhythm Lid drumhead that create a practical and useful drum sound. Applying the drumhead to the pail with a slight downward pressure creates a "Press Fit" seal that produces the best tonal frequency. Most hardware stores or big box stores carry a thinner less expensive pail that works with the Rhythm Pal Drumhead. For fun and easy playing there is no excuse for any house, apartment, or dorm room to be without a Rhythm Pal.

Primary Series

Primary – The Future Sounds Green!

With over 100 instruments, the Primary range offers glockenspiels, xylophones, metallophones, chime bars, timpani and small percussion for elementary music education. For years now we have been using an ecological lacquering system, called Proterra, which is based on shellac, oil and carnauba wax. Now, with the FSC™ certification, we are taking the next step forward. We are proud to offer you the Primary series with timber from well managed forests! The Forest Stewardship Council (FSC™) is committed to national and international economical efficient, ecological and social effective management of the world's forests. The preservation of the forests and their function as wildlife habitat, biological resource and global buffering system against the aftermath of the climate change, by promoting the consumption of FSC™ wood and paper products is the goal of this non profit organization. www.fsc.org

The special characteristics of the Primary series are:

6 octaves tonal range, C to a4 – of which approx.4 octaves are chromatic, c to b-flat3.

The sound material of the xylophones is the beautifully veined and colorful African Pao Rosa.

Sound bars with overtone tuning, fundamental tuning or standard tuning.

Imprinted on all sound bars is the staff with the corresponding note. The redesigned resonator boxes solid birch plywood and are optimizing the sound.

Resonator boxes have brackets to attach legs or the BasisTrolley System.

Series 2000

The instruments of the premium Series 2000 satisfy the highest musical standards and are excellent for use in music and grade schools. All instruments, with exception of the glockenspiels, have resonance boxes of solid wood and handles for easy transportation. The handles also serve as supports for the stands. Adjusting the instruments on the stands is easy with the turn of a screw, for a quick change of instruments and uninterrupted instruction. For maximum volume, the alto and bass instruments include several proportioned resonance chambers and sound-reinforcing lips on the dividers. Only hand-selected and expertly cured Amazon Jacaranda (Rosewood) is used in the legendary Series 2000.

Contra Bass Bars

The Studio 49 contrabass bars and bare carefully made to have an acoustically accurate tone chamber, which gives the instrument excellent intonation. Contrabass bars are in the register an octave below the bass xylophone, making them a great substitute for timpani. These instruments are excellent for classroom use and are durably made for years of music-making. Mallets are not included with these bass bars, but we recommend using a yarn contrabass bar mallet, like the Studio 49 S60.
